General Overview

Bolognese & Associates, LLC is a law firm based in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The firm's practice focuses exclusively upon complex commercial litigation, and consists of three general practice areas: (1) class action litigation arising under federal antitrust and securities laws, and state and federal consumer protection laws; (2) "opt out" litigation, brought on behalf of persons and entities who exclude themselves from class actions and elect to pursue their claims individually; and (3) litigation involving a broad array of complex business and commercial disputes.

The firm offers the highest caliber of legal services to our clients. The firm's attorneys have extensive knowledge in counseling individuals and companies whose businesses range from regional to national to global. Bolognese & Associates has the experience, the personnel and the resources to fully investigate and, if appropriate, prosecute, our clients' claims anywhere in the world. The firm represents clients involved in a broad array of commercial disputes in arbitration tribunals, federal and state courts nationwide.

The firm's lawyers have been recognized by Courts, commentators, clients, co-counsel, and even opposing counsel as a national leader in the area of complex commercial litigation. Mr. Bolognese has served with distinction in such cases, and this has not gone unnoticed by the Courts before which he has appeared. Most recently, presiding over a massive multidistrict antitrust action in the United States District Court for the District of Pennsylvania in which Mr. Bolognese served as Co-Lead Counsel, the Court commented as follows after Mr. Bolognese's presentation, in approving the latest in a series of settlements that collectively total over $86 million:

Well, as I said in the last order or so and I will say in this order, we have all benefited from Judge Hart's patient and creative mediation and above all the patient and creative negotiation of able counsel on both sides. And as I always tell my law clerks that having good lawyers involved in a case is a good thing for everybody and this is a perfect example of why I say that. And so it's a pleasure working with you gentlemen, and I congratulate you, and I will get an order out today.

In re Hydrogen Peroxide Antitrust Litigation, MDL No. 1682, at p. 12 (E.D. Pa. May 13, 2008).

Likewise, in approving the settlement of a significant multidistrict antitrust action in which Mr. Bolognese and his law firm served as a Co-Lead Counsel, Judge Broderick of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania observed that:

. . . the Plaintiff[s] were well served by attorneys who were highly experienced and nationally recognized in class action litigation generally and anti-trust litigation in particular. . . . Plaintiff Class counsel['s] . . . work was efficiently conducted. Counsel diligently developed the facts and legal issues, analyzed a multitude of documents, were steadfast in settlement negotiations with the . . . Defendants, and, ultimately, achieved an excellent result.

A sampling of the cases that the firm has handled is as follows.

Our Practice Areas

Class Action Litigation

Bolognese & Associates is a nationally recognized leader in the area of complex class action litigation, and has served in a leadership role in many of the most important and substantial class action cases, including:

Antitrust Litigation: for over 20 years, the firm's attorneys have represented individuals and businesses in antitrust class action suits to recover damages resulting from violations of the federal and state antitrust laws, including actions involving price-fixing, customer allocation, geographical allocation and other forms of anticompetitive conduct involving "a broad array of products and services." The firm has served as Co-Lead Counsel and in other leadership roles in some of the largest and most complex antitrust actions in the last two decades. These actions have resulted in recoveries for our clients totaling hundreds of millions of dollars, and have, in several instances, resulted in substantial industry-wide therapeutic measures and other reforms designed to enhance competition and prevent future antitrust violations.

Securities Litigation: the firm's attorneys have extensive experience representing individuals and businesses who have sustained losses as a result of securities fraud, including actions alleging the issuance of materially false and misleading financial statements, and other statements regarding the business, operations and prospects of public companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock Exchange and the Nasdaq securities market. These actions have not only resulted in substantial monetary recoveries but, as with the firm's antitrust actions and consumer protection actions, have resulted in meaningful corporate governance reforms

Consumer Protection Litigation: the firm's attorneys have served in a leadership role in a number of state and federal lawsuits alleging violations of laws that seeks to prevent consumer deception and abuse, and unfair trade practices aimed at consumers generally. These actions have not only resulted in substantial monetary recoveries but, as with the firm's antitrust and securities actions, have resulted in meaningful therapeutic reforms.

"Opt-Out" Antitrust Litigation

The firm has also acted as counsel to individual claimants who have excluded themselves, or “opted out,” of nationwide class actions, primarily price-fixing and monopolization actions, to pursue their antitrust claims independently of the plaintiff class. The firm’s experience in evaluating and pursuing opt-out representation in select instances has provides the firm’s clients with the option of deciding how best to pursue their claims and vindicate their interests.

Business and Commercial Litigation

In addition to its class action practice, the firm’s attorneys have extensive experience in representing business clients in a broad array of commercial disputes, including:

Breach of Contract Litigation: disputes between and among business persons and entities concerning their respective rights and obligations under commercial contracts, such as:

- Disputes Involving International Business Transactions: disputes involving contracts and parties with international implications, including disputes involving United States nationals and parties located in the European Union.

Disputes Involving Business Torts and Other Unfair and Deceptive Business Practices: a wide variety of commercial tort disputes, including claims such as fraud, misappropriation of trade secrets, corporate espionage, violation of restrictive covenants, and tortious interference with business opportunities.
